

Lunik, Constant Tourist

On your forehead it says (written in dark letters)
Look but don't touch, taste but don't swallow
My heart has been your playground (and now it's all upside down)
You never asked, you never apologized
I was standing offside powerless - watching you fade away
You've always been out of reach

By your side I always felt stuck in the waiting room
Didn't ever catch the train to loverland
I was running running running without leaving
A constant tourist I have been in your world

You're my deepest cut (though I'm not bleeding anymore)
The wound doesn't bleed anymore but now the scar hurts
I was standing offside powerless watching you fade away
You've always been out of reach

By your side I always felt stuck in the waiting room
Didn't ever catch the train to loverland
I was running running running without leaving
A constant tourist I have been in your world

They wonder what it was that made me stay so long
Well, I really just loved you
I always put you first, well you did, too
A constant tourist I have been in your world

By your side I always felt stuck in the waiting room
Didn't ever catch the train to loverland
I was running running running without leaving
A constant tourist I have been in your world
By your side I always felt stuck in the waiting room
Didn't ever catch the train to loverland
I was running running running without leaving
A constant tourist I have been in your world
