

Lydia Lunch, Afraid of your company

13 Dimensions

If we stretched this hour it would go on forever once more skewered coming out of both sides

It's a day of waiting...

waiting two plus three and here I go again

what will follow

yes I know all of the answers and I'll tell you no lies...

I'm afraid of your company

I never see you where you are

You're never at where I am

I want you to be here you have to stay at home...

save it you say

save it for another day...

it's safer in the day

it's safer in the day

at least for another day....

A fly in the butter screams my name everything just came two steps too close slit your wrist to save your neck

I'm mouth to mouth with a corpse

From here to Eternity and then back again something snapped inside my head spit it out on the baseboard a shot in the dark in the back of my brain