

Lyfe, Goodbye

Sometimes making up is easier than breaking up
We believe if we just fake it enough
We can trick ourselves into believing that we're still in love
But in our hearts we know that it's inevitable
Though it's hard to let you go I know I must

Sometimes memories just ain't enough
Sometimes you outgrow the ones you love
Sometimes it's none of the above
It's just a fact that people change, no one's to blame
There ain't nothing that stays the same
So we sit around and cry because
Neither one of us wants to be the first to say
Goodbye

Sometimes giving second chances

Is easier than dealing with the fact that
Once the trust is gone you can never get it back
But you're holding on because you're afraid of being alone
So here you are holding on to something that's already gone
And don't act like it's the first time you've heard it in this song
Cause your heart done told you all along
If your mama done showed you right from wrong
No thing should hold you down this long
There's no one to blame, nothing stays the same
So we sit around and cry because
Neither one of us wants to be the first to say
Goodbye

So let me be the first to say
{Spoken} Goodbye
