

Lyn Lapid, I Guess That Was Goodbye

The summer I turned 18
Started with me running from a party
Bella was drinking in the back
My prom night panic attack

Racing climbing to the front door
Bolted down 29 going 84
Ended the night on the curb
The last twelve years were a blur

Swear I was just on the pavement
Laying down while someone traces...me
Watching the sky I thought I had more time
What a lie I guess that was goodbye

I guess that was goodbye
I guess that was goodbye

Wonder if I can outrun September
It's not the end
If I play pretend like when we were kids

Make friends with the dark say "stay forever"
Don't let me down
Night's a fair weather friend, lets daylight come in

Swear I was just on the pavement
Laying down while someone traces...me
Watching the sky I thought I had more time
What a lie I guess that was goodbye

But I guess mr clock was just doing his job
And it's nobody's fault but I wish it was...

Swear I was just on the pavement
Laying down while someone traces...me
Watching the sky I thought I had more time
What a lie I guess that was goodbye

I guess that was goodbye
I guess that was goodbye
I guess that was goodbye
I guess that was goodbye
