

Lyn Lapid, poster boy

saw you at the corner store i don't think we've met before But it's so nice to meet you how have I never seen you

you were wearing corduroy looking like a poster boy caught the smell of your shampoo yeah I think that i love you know we just met

i gotta confess
with you I don't see an end
'cause you'll be the death of me
my greatest enemy
but for now

it's you and I
it's you and I see my life
in your eyes

are you from another lifetime have you known me all along or am I just wishful thinking and i don't know you at all you could be a killer who's on the loose the next day I'll end up on the news oh i don't care you can call me a fool 'cause i got a good feeling about you and I

it's you and

it's you and
