

Lynn Anderson, Time's Just Right

This ain't no time to be goin' for a walk
Just take off your coat and let's have a little talk
Cause I found out where you went last night
Let's talk about it now cause the time's just right
I been talkin' to some friends of mine and I found out where you spend your time
You come a draggin' in just about daylight
Let's talk about it now cause the time's just right
The time's just right to do all the tellin' there ain't no use for you to start yellin'
Screamin' and a hollerin' like you do every time
The time's about right for a piece of my mind

[guitar]

Well I'm a gettin' pretty tired of bein' treated like a child
While you run around like somethin' gone wild
You never come home till you're bout half tight
Let's talk about it now cause the time's just right
Now don't you look at me with that sheepish grin
I saw you last night tryin' to tiptoe in
Cause I waited up for you most all night
Let's talk about it now cause the time's just right
Yeah the time's just right...

[steel]

I see right now your goose is cooked cause baby I found your little black book
And it's time I got the truth in black and white
So let's talk about it now cause the time's just right
The time's just right...
