

Mad Caddies, Depleted Salvo

How can you justify your pain
(Why do you justify your pain)
When everyone has felt the same
How can you walk around so dead
(Why do you walk around so dead)
With good days gone and more ahead
(With good days gone and more ahead)

With one look you take
The idle minds that lay before you
And give something they can touch and they can feel
And in the end
You'll have the memories that few could dream off
So with the words I say
Can't you see that your life's just begun

How can you let the days go by (Why do you let the days go by)
With no excuse no alibi
How can you fall when you don't climb
(How can you fall when you don't climb)
The fear of heights has left you behind
(The fear of heights has left you behind)

With one look you take
The idle minds that lay before you
And give something they can touch and they can feel
And in the end
You'll have the memories that few could dream off
So with the words I say
Can't you see that your life's just begun

I see your life has just begun
Why can't I be free

With one look you take
The idle minds that lay before you
And give something they can touch and they can feel
And in the end
You'll have the memories that few could dream off
So with the words I say
Can't you see that your life's just begun
