Madball, The Blame

What are you gonna do when they all turn on you is it worth for us to live their way it's their mistake and we're the blame are we to live by their rules and be told what to do we're not part of their society fuck their authority we're the youth of today and nothing can stand in our way we are young and strong with our new hopes we can't go wrong we'll live without conformity we got our dreams fuck authority can't you look around you and see the world of today they're all fucking hypocrites who lies to get their way we shouldn't feel this shame when we know we're not the blame we can't take their abuse they're full of selfish lies we've heard too many excuses when we know we're right the anger has grown inside us and we're out for blood tonight