

Magic Affair, Break These Chains

Break these chains
Break these chains
And do the things that you wanna do
Break these chains
That's all you've got to do

Ooh it's close to midnight, church bells rings at time
You open up your eyes and you start to realize
That there's something evil in you that wants to take control
Of you mind and of your body, your person and your soul

It takes a little while before you comprehend
That you only had a nightmare while laying in your bed
Your body is still aching, there's pressure in your brain
A voice inside is screaming, you've got to

Break these chains
Break these chains
And do the things that you wanna do
Break these chains
That's all you've got to do

It was your imagination that played a trick on you
That's what you are believing and therefor you act cool
But your secret fantasies that you try to hide inside
Are knocking at your door now, they're shouting let us out

You're afraid to fall asleep cause you know they will return
All those creepy little monsters who are living in your dreams
So you better change your life now, don't you be so vain
Let your feelings guide you, you've got to