

Magnum, Back In Your Arms Again

When I forget to say
Every little thing I feel
When I am far, far away
And nothing in this world seems real
When I get lost on the way

When I feel dark and I can't speak
Everything I do goes wrong
You tell me that time is the thief
And promise there's a place I belong
When I can't think what to say

Don't give up now, that would hurt too much
Don't give up now and say you've had enough

It won't be long till I'm back in your arms again
So please be strong till I'm back in your arms again
I count the days till I'm back in your arms again

So when I forget to say
Every little thing I feel
And when I am far, far away
Nothing in this world seems real
When I get lost on the way

Don't give up now, that would hurt too much
Don't give up now and say you've had enough

It won't be long till I'm back in your arms again
So please be strong till I'm back in your arms again
I count the days till I'm back in your arms again

Whatever the distance, I don't care
Nothing will stop me now, call and I'll be there

It won't be long till I'm back in your arms again
So please be strong till I'm back in your arms again
I count the days till I'm back in your arms again
