

Magnum, When The World Comes Down

Hiding somewhere out of sight, you all right
Feeling, pulled from left to right, you all right
You're been alone again tonight, no one has called
If they had known, I think they might, 'cause you've got it all

There are times it's hard to swallow
When the world comes down on you
May it shine on you tomorrow
And your dreams, they all come true

I hear you crying to yourself, that's not right
And I know you, you need somebody's help for tonight
But you sit alone, turn off your light, feeling so small
You should have known how well you might, you've got it all

There are times it's hard to swallow
When the world comes down on you
May it shine on you tomorrow
And your dreams, they all come true
