

Man-Made Sunshine, Big

I stayed with you all night as you spit out your sleeping pills, you were swimming in the in-between,

□

Id stayed with you all day, you were living by the seaside. On a couch too big for a room that size, a

□

Don't sleep, I'm not ready to lose you x2

□

While I pick up the pieces that you left of my life I remember your innocent heart. Same that beats i

While I patch up the pieces I hear it in the night, it's the sound of alone in the dark.

The way it eats at you, nothing complete in you, it ain't so big to me now, I'll be big for you now

□

Though you don't realise

There's a crack that runs through your skin

It's letting the light out

Something beautiful you always had within

□

While I pick up the pieces that you left of my life I remember your innocent heart. Same that beats i

While I patch up the pieces I hear it in the night, it's the sound of alone in the dark.

The way it eats at you, nothing complete in you, it ain't so big to me now, I'll be big for you now

□

I'll forgive you now, forget the way things were. Don't need a single word, I'll be big for you now

□

While I pick up the pieces that you left of my life I remember your innocent heart. Same that beats i

While I patch up the pieces I hear it in the night, it's the sound of alone in the dark.

The way it eats at you, nothing complete in you, it ain't so big to me now, I'll be big for you now