

Mandy Moore, Swept Away

Try to find one more moment
Before we open our eyes
Give me something more from this ocean
A kiss that we don't have to hide

I hold you the way that I handle my heart
Quietly guarded and still
I'm swept away

You allow me your sweet surrender
Through a visual poetry
That I may have never discovered
But you read like it was waiting for me

You smile with your eyes before it reaches your mouth
Quietly guarded and still
I'm swept away
Like a stone that gets lost in the tide
Swept away
And I'm fighting to stay on your side
Alone I am fine
And then you walk in and I cave
And I'm swept away

Took your hand with immediate comfort
Took your friendship right to my heart
Caught up in that feeling I've searched for
And I hardly know who you are

I'm holding on tight in the midst of this wind
Trying so hard to stand still
I'm swept away
Like a stone that gets lost in the tide
Swept away
And I'm fighting to stay on your side
Alone I am fine
And then you arrive and I cave
And I'm swept away

I'm a sensitive heart that exists in hope above fear
And the weight of your words carried just what I needed to hear

My questions are starting to settle
And the ocean is calm once again
But I'm swept away
Like a stone that gets lost in the tide
Swept away
And I'm fighting to stay on your side
Alone I am fine
And then you walk in and I cave
Alone I am fine
And then you walk in and I cave
And I'm swept away
