

Mari, Unfold

What i can remember is a lot like water trickling down a page of the most beautiful colors i can't quite put my finger down on the moment that i became like this... you see i am the bravest girl you will ever come to meet yet i shrink down to nothing at the thought of someone really seeing me i think my heart is wrapped around and tangled up in winding weeds but i dont wanna go on living being so afraid of showing someone else my imperfections and even though my feet
are trembling
and every word i say
comes stumbling
i will bare it all... watch me unfold
unfold
these hands that i hold behind my back are bound and broken
by my own doing and i can't feel anything anymore
i need a touch to remind me i'm still real
my soul
it's dying to be free
you see.. i can't live the rest of my life so guarded
it's up to me to choose... what kind of life i lead
i will allow someone to love me
