

Marianne Faithfull, Time Takes Time

The wind laughs and the world cries,
And I don't care anymore.
I can only hear the sound of my head,
And the soft sea roar.
For the wind laughs and the world cries
And I shall laugh with the wind.

Today will end when the sun will rise
When I shall laugh to your blind eyes.
The world can break
And time takes time to realise.
For the wind laughs, the world cries

And I shall laugh with the wind.

I shall laugh like a child in the wind and change
As love for me has always been strange.

The wind laughs and the world cries,
But I don't care anymore.
I can only hear the sound of my head,
And the soft sea roar.
For the wind laughs and the world cries
And I shall laugh with the wind.