

Marilyn Manson, Coma Black: Eden Eye/The App

My mouth was a crib and it was growing lies I didn't know what love was on that day my heart's a tiny bloodclot I picked at it it never heals it never goes away

I burned all the good things in The Eden Eye
we were too dumb to run too dead to die

This was never my world
you took the angel away
I'd kill myself to make everybody pay
This was never my world
you took the angel away
I'd kill myself to make everybody pay

I would have told her then she was the only thing that I could love in this dying world but the simple word "love" itself already died and went away

This was never my world
you took the angel away
I'd kill myself to make everybody pay
This was never my world
you took the angel away
I'd kill myself to make everybody pay

I burned all the good things in The Eden Eye
we were too dumb to run too dead to die

[b) APPLE OF DISCORD]

Her heart's bloodstained egg we didn't handle with care it's broken and bleeding and we can never repair
