MARIUSZ DUDA, THE SONG OF A DYING MEM

started to lose bit by bit all I had left of you all I had cherished and adored got blurry

I felt the kiss of the heat fading on your cracked lips wishpers that had kept me alive I ceased to hear stay whit me just for another day for I believe I love you stll yesterday eyes of the rivers dried up denbial fell apart and like the iceberf melted down burnt by the sun dying of hunger that night somewhere on the ocean shore admiring colors in the sky the dream had gone stay with me just for another day for I believe I love you still yesterday

stay with me just for another day for I believe I love you still yesterday
