

Martina McBride, Two more bottles of wine

We came out west together with a common desire The fever we had might-a set the west coast on