

Marty Robbins, Change Of Heart

Some will say we have no call
To throw away such a true love
And some, no doubt, will blame it all
On the losing out to some new love
But after all is said and done
And we talked out every part we start
To realize it all comes down
To just a change of heart

Now friends, I'm sure, are bound to find
One reason or another
But maybe love just fell behind
And one heart let go of the other
But after all is said and done
And we talked out every part we start
To realize it all comes down
To just a change of heart

Funny how it all comes down
With just a change of heart
