

Marty Robbins, Lover, Lover

Who can I count on if I can't count on you
Who can I turn to if I can't turn to you
Who can I cling to if I can't cling to you
Who can I sing to if I can't sing to you

Lover, you've left me alone in a world with no gladness
I'm all alone in a world where there's nothing but sadness
Lover, I pray that the angel of mercy will find me
And take away all of the pain and the chains that bind me
Lover, lover come back to me

Thoughts that I shouldn't keep, thoughts that invade my sleep,
You with another man, has numbed my brain
My heart is running wild, it's acting like a child
Jealousy runs so deep inside my veins

Lover, you've left me alone in a world with no gladness
I'm all alone in a world where there's nothing but sadness
Lover, I pray that the angel of mercy will find me
And take away all of the pain and the chains that bind me
Lover, lover come back to me

Come back to me