Marty Robbins, You Don't Really Know

I told myself there's no harm in just bein' friends
She belongs to another but it won't hurt to see her again
Now she's here in my arms and I'm tryin' to pretend it's not wrong
You don't really know how far you can go till you're already gone

Don't take no chances, be careful and no one will know
But when she comes around I can't help it if my feelin's show
Now the whole town is talking and the one that really loves me is gone
You don't really know how far you can go till you're already gone

I called her up and she says she can't see me again
She's found another but still thinks of me as a friend
Looks like I've gained a friend but I've lost everything that I own
You don't really know how far you can go till you're already gone

You don't really know how far you can go till you're already gone
