

Mary Lou Lord, Ontario, Quebec And Me

You don't need my Christmas card, you already have my heart
This has been a holiday romance, right from the very start
For we know how to spend the time, who cares about the weather
We'll dance in the town till the sun goes down and push our beds together

From the land of the midnight sunglasses to the mountain of the moon
You could never stay in bed too long I'll never come back soon
For we know how to spend the time, who cares about the weather
We'll dance in the town till the sun goes down and push our beds together

You know how fool I am with my short attention span
Flying in the really season too Nothing can keep me away from you
For we know how to spend the time, who cares about the weather
We'll dance in the town till the sun goes down and push our beds together
