

Mary Lou Lord, Seven Sisters

On Seven Sisters lay down your innocence
Cash in your ignorance learn about the truth
And it&#039;s no playground it&#039;s one big let down
It looks like a backstreet bargain baby
But you just got screwed
And on that high road you live in shadows
And the one that follows is your silent twin
And it&#039;s a sad reminder
That when you try to find her
She&#039;s back on the old main drag in trouble again

Ten hail Mary&#039;s and she&#039;s ready to score
Dealing with the damage of a grown up war
But turning tricks and tourniquets
Are nothing more than another wasted day

Cinderella&#039;s on the corner with her eyes in tears
Waiting for the moment when the magic appears
They expected her home for the past two years
I guess she lost her way

The tide is always turning
Deep inside your desire&#039;s burning
And you&#039;re dying just to get away

You thought you had it down
When you first came to this town
Now you&#039;re begging for a helping hand
And a brand new day
You&#039;re begging back all that Seven Sisters took away

Can you get it back again
Get it back again

And I wish I could escape
From the old main drag
From the old main drag
