

Matchbook Romance, Save Yourself

These words, fall from your mouth, and stab me in the back
It should have never come to this
It's too late, for your apologies
They can't bring back all that you've taken from me
Stripped of my pride, and left for dead

This time is the last time I take this abuse
I've found my place, and this place is far away from you
How can you say, I'm at fault
The one to blame is you
Stripped of my pride, and left for dead

I'm so tired of apologizing to myself for you and what you've done to me
And I've tried, to forgive myself for caring about you
Theres nothing I can do

This time is the last time I take this abuse
I've found my place, and this place is far away from you