

Mates of State, Punchlines

Waiting close by the door for us.

Can't hardly see out but if you could.

You'd make it all worth our while, punchlines you've been saving up for some 90 years.

It's not the same without you around.

It's not the same without you.

I've been thinking it's an afterthought oh oh.

Get into the car and you aim it at the sun, boy.

Can't you hear me in the aftermath.

Get into the car and you point it at the west, uh huh.

I've been thinking in an afterthought.

Can't you hear it in the aftermath.
