

Maximilian Hecker, Summer Days In Bloom paralyzed by ancient delight and riding for a fall today i am dressed in style, so eager in mind but furthermore distracted by you and it's like i lose myself in dreaming of summer days in bloom oh, i've got no clue how i could fight that all that i am is worth a dime

worth a dime

this liquid lunch will not stop my punch-drunk quality to doze while i run it is thirty-nine degrees in my mind it's thirty thousand miles more to go cause it's like i lose myself in dreaming of summer days in bloom for i've got no clue whatever happened
all that i am is worth a dime
worth a dime