Meanwhile, Back In Communist Russia..., Now I

The film smears over the water, orange and black, flickering : off, on, off.

As the summer rain fails to cool me down or clean me up, the smell of your skin takes me back to t The rain mats the dirty fur of my coat into spikes.

Your fingers are tight about my shoulders for the last time.

Dissolving back into the winter & possible at the sour red wine & possible amp; the footbeats, the sour red wine & possible amp; your mouth not & possible amp; the trees against the sky, drippling backly into our faces, my mouth fills your with the taste of cigar trying to struggle may way back inside of it, wanting to savour the tiny hurts. Belly-down, eyes held(?) up the miniature door: hole up tight in the dense pug(?) of vanilla incense

Belly-down, eyes held(?) up the miniature door : hole up tight in the dense pug(?) of vanilla incense Your smell mixes with the others, fades softly into the smoke, into the sheets & mp; slips away from the smoke, into the sheets amp; slips away from the smoke, into the sheets amp; slips away from the sheets are sheets.

I never want to get up.
