

Meat Loaf, Everything Is Permitted

Everything is permitted, everything is allowed

And all our gods we have outwitted, we are running with the crowd

And all the clocks are showing zero,
and all our parents must have fled

And we just never had no heroes

And all our enemies will soon be stone cold dead

Everything is permitted,
there is nothing out of bounds

There are no limits or no fences, there is always some way round

And all the compass points are zero, and all the navigators fled

And we just never had no heroes

And all our enemies will soon be stone cold dead

If everything is permitted,
if nothing ever is taboo

Then there is always something shattered
When there is something breaking thru

[Instrumental break]

And all the clocks are showing zero,
and all our parents must have fled

And we just never had no heroes

And all our enemies will soon be stone cold dead

If everything is permitted,
if nothing ever is taboo

Then there is always something shattered
When there is something breaking thru

Then there is always something shattered
When there is something breaking thru

Everything is permitted