

Meat Puppets, Whirlpool

the night is restless but no dream's in sight and the sounds have no beginnings or ends and that glow is not a light the walls turn into waterfalls with water made of thoughts that call,
"it's not O.K. to tip the glass don't smile too long or shed a tear you're not the only one that's you things have changed, now we are here." we are not the king and queen what we are lies in between the blankets that you've never seen but over you are spread
"we are here," the voices sing
"we are here," the echo thunders
"here we are," the doorbell rings
"we are here and here in numbers" the others came in from the hall and thoughts with voices start to call,
"it's not O.K. to tip the glass or smile too long or shed a tear you're not alone the way you thought things have changed, now we are here"