Megan McCauley, Break You

I was your girl Gave you my world My everything But you wouldn't see I had your back I backed you up Whatever I did

Was never enough

Just you

You

That's all you ever thought about

You You

No one matters like you do

What goes around comes around

You should know by now

Bet you never thought that I could break you Did you think that I would look the other way

Yeah you had it all figured out

But tell me who's the one who's crying now

The palm of your hand That was your plan Gave me no time

But now you want mine

It's all about take You took too much Nothing inside

I'm all used up

Come on

You

You

Nothing else matters like you do

You know what I'm talkin' 'bout don't you

What goes around comes around

You should know by now

Bet you never thought that I could break you Did you think that I would look the other way

Yeah you had it all figured out

But tell me who's the one who's crying now

On your one night stands (should've thought about that)

Says she's just a friend

(should've thought about that)

Are you satisfied now?

(should've thought about that)

Cause you can't hold me down

Not now

I wanna thank you 'cause now I'm free

I can breathe again and I'm never going back to you

Bet you never thought that I could break you Did you think that I would look the other way?

Yeah you had it all figured out

But tell me who's the one who's crying now

Yeah yeah

Bet you never thought that I could break you (Bet you never thought that I could break you) Did you think that I would look the other way

Yeah you had it all figured out

But tell me who's the one who's crying now
