

Mel Tillis, Arms Of A Fool

So many times you've told me that you love me
And just as many times I found that it's not true
So if you've had your fun and you still need someone
Come on home to the arms of a fool
My foolish eyes still cry when my ears believe a lie
And my foolish heart keeps sayin' I love you
So with your new flamed eyes and you're still burning with desire
Come on home to the arms of a fool

[steel]

Now even if I'm standing in for someone
It's all right because I'm standing next to you
You'll find an open door and I'll take you back once more
Come on home to the arms of a fool
My foolish eyes still cry...
Come on home to the arms of a fool
