

Men Without Hats, In The Name Of Angels

Jenny had a vision

Jenny had a vision of her mother dancing in the middle of a million rainbows and everywhere you look were the lovers dancing in the middle of expanding halos and Jenny held Johnny with the sweetest promise please tell me which way your name goes when all he really wanted was to be his fondest he never really liked tornados they're all in the name of angels singing

Johnny had a vision of the understanding but he couldn't tell his mom or me, no! he said it was a mission that we took for granted tell me which way the rain bows and jenny heard johnny make the sweetest promise and sounded like they'd won the game show and all he really wanted was to be his proudest he never really liked tornadoes
singing

you can lose your head
you can lose your mind
you can lose your way (you can lose your way) keep your eyes and still be blind and you can lose your head

and you can lose your brain

jenny loves johnny like the earth and sun in the middle of a moment they can will all become johnny loves jenny like the wind and sea in the middle of forever we can all be free
in the middle of a moment they will all be one
Say

you can lose your way (you can lose your way)
