

Meredith Edwards, You

If all my good fortune ended
If my whole world came tumbling down
If suddenly everything I'm sure of
Came crashing to the ground
If all my worse fears came true
If I lost every dream I ever knew

You, you would be the faith that carries me
You would show me the grace to make me see
The truth, whatever storm I fly into
All I really need to get me through
Is you

So I can take my chances
I can swing from the trapeze
I'm not afraid of falling
I know that you'll catch me
And when my sky is running out of blue
When I just don't know what to do

You, you would be the faith that carries me
You would show me the grace to make me see
The truth, whatever storm I fly into
All I really need to get me through
Is you

When I don't believe anything
When I'm spinning in a hurricane
When the world is full of strangers
I've got you

Oh you, you will be the fate that carries me
You would show me the grace to make me see
The truth, whatever storm I fly into
All I really need to get me through
Is you

Whenever I'm lost
Whenever I'm down
Whenever all my dreams come crashing to the ground
All I need is
All I need is you, you
