

Meridene, For Love! For Honor! For God! For Country!

Whoooooo!

I was raised by the light, and then sent off to fight flags are raised, in the sky, and we all march on by

I never had a home, no place all my own, for when I've gone roaming
I had no mom or dad no place to hang my hat
when I'm back up in Laurel Canyon where I'll build when I get back

Whoooooo!

Well that girl, that I left, well she had the most beautiful lips how she cried, when my plane, left her alone on the runway

I should have married her, but now all I feel is regret when I looked into her eyes and I kissed her goodbye
when I'm back up in Laurel Canyon
I'll make her my wife

But It goes!
Touchdown
The Ground
The sound over head go screaming in pain the planes overhead throw bombs on the towns the sounds as the shades go down
I can hear them around

Whoooooo!

If I close my eyes I know they'll never reopen
And I'm having trouble making out my own voice Please tell that girl back home oh lord how I love her and tell her I'm sorry that I can't tell her myself And I pray to god that maybe I could behold her but it looks like god is busy with somebody else someone else oh god oh god please save me now

Touchdown
The Ground
The world ends up screaming
I gave away my love, I was freezing I can't believe the way the way I went down, fade to black now and I watched you awaken and I want you to know now know now no no oh no no
