Merle Haggard, Ain't Your Memory Got No Pride

I woke up with her in my arms this morning and God knows I love her over all As she whispered she loved me your memory appeared Ain't your mem'ry got no pride at all Tonight as I lay here touching her sweet body and the good familiar feeling I recall As I closed my eyes to kiss her your memory appeard Ain't your mem'ry got no pride at all You were here we loved now you're gone Why can't you let bygones be bygones and stay gone You always find the wrong time to come around and call Ain't your mem'ry got no pride at all ain't your mem'ry got no pride at all
