

Merril Bainbridge, Under The Water

I get confused when I'm tired
But the last time I saw you
We were in a room
With sunshine in my eyes
And water on the floor
I watched you float away
Take me with you

A long time ago
We were walking around
We were fooling around
In the garden
In the garden
I saw you turn around
And still you turn around
My eyes are playing tricks on me
How I miss you

I could be your lover
Chained under the water
Under the water
I could be standing on a ladder
To make it easier
To make it easier

Your eyes are colored stone
You've got an earring through your nose
Your chains are made of gold
I don't think they would float
But floating is what you do
That is beautiful
That is you

I could be your lover
Chained under the water
Under the water
I could be swimming out to save you
No one ever saves you
To make it easier

I'll be your lover
Under the water
I could be standing
To make it easier

I could be your lover
Chained under the water
Under the water
I could be standing on a ladder
To make it easier
To make it easier

I could be your lover
Under the water
I could be swimming out to save you
To make it easier

I could be your lover
Under the water
I could be swimming out to save you

To make it easier

I could be your lover
Under the water
To make it easier
To make it easier

I could be your lover
Under the water
I could be swimming out to save you
To make it easier

I could be your lover
Under the water
I could be swimming out the save you
