

Mesh, Step By Step

I learn about life through your life
I learn about touch through your hands
I learn about love through your heart
I learn to be kind where I can

But the window's still broken
It's starting to freeze
And the only thing I ever wanted
Is scattered in the breeze

I learn about strength through your strength
I learn about hope in your eyes
I learn about taste through your lips
I learn about trust through your lies

But the cuts are still open
They're starting to bleed
It's the only thing I ever wanted
The only thing I need

Can you teach me to feel it?
I'll take it step by step so I never miss a thing
Make me feel it
I'll get inside your head till you live inside me
Teach me to feel it
I'll take it step by step so I never miss a thing
Make me feel it
I'll get inside your head till you live inside me

I learn about life everlasting
I learn to contain your surprise
I learn about faith by believing
I learn about lust when it dies

And you're all I ever cared for
Through all that I've done
And the only thing that's not sewn up
Are the lessons left undone

Can you teach me to feel it?
I'll take it step by step so I never miss a thing
Make me feel it
I'll get inside your head till you live inside me
Teach me to feel it
I'll take it step by step so I never miss a thing
Make me feel it
I'll get inside your head till you live inside me
