

Mest, Got To Go

Thinking about the times we shared
Looking at the stars, the sky's so clear
If I could freeze time, I'd stay right here
But I can't so I'm moving on

What can we do now to kill some time?
I've got to go again and leave you behind
And I would stare up at the same sky
But you're so far from where I lie

I hold you all night
Until the moon turns into the sunlight
We can both make believe
That in the morning I don't have to leave
But we both know
When the morning comes
I got to go
When the morning comes
I got to go

Another phone call to hold on to
Another night alone we made it through
You say you love me and you'll stay true
So I sit and I just hold on

We're both still growing and having fun
They say we can't do it and we're too young
Maybe they just never had what we do
Maybe their love was never true

I hold you all night
Until the moon turns into the sunlight
We can both make believe
That in the morning I don't have to leave
But we both know
When the morning comes
I got to go

But we both know
When the morning comes
I've got to
When the morning comes
I don't want to
When the morning comes
I've got to go
