

Mia Rose, Let go

Every shred of hope collides in your heart with the fear of losing what you've just given up
As the moments pass you pray to survive
All these lonely minutes that once kept you alive
Try to change the expression that's worn out your face
As you lose the momentum of your past living ways Every song is a channel for the memories to keep floating in your head as you're left asking
Why did I choose to let it all go
Was it the fear of needing or the doubts I let show
I never gave up fighting
I never said goodbye
So why? Why did we let go?
Every day is a new breath, but the battle's still on trying hard to elude them by keeping my head strong Still I feel the exhaustion of wanting your kiss
As I'm left here asking the same damn question
Why did I choose to let it all go
Was it the fear of needing
or the doubts I let show
I never gave up fighting
I never said goodbye
So why? Why did we let go?
You never showed that you were scared of losing me
And You... You didn't fight to make me stay in your arms
So I'm left asking...
Why did I choose to let it all go
Was it the fear of needing
or the doubts I let show
I never gave up fighting
I never said goodbye
So why? Why did we let go? Let go...