

Michael Tolcher, The Sun Song

One more beginning for as long as it lasts
A new day for the living all forgiving of the past
A heavy foot steps to the dark unknown
This is a mystery, no security of home

Here comes the sun
Over my head
Show me a path and I'll be led
Walking alone, I'm not afraid
I have my wings to fly away.

There's been a fever burning holes in your skin.
A million questions, let the journey begin
Want with a reason and you'll understand
The source is infinite, so choose your demand

Here comes the sun
Over my head
Show me a path and I'll be led
Walking alone, I'm not afraid

I have my wings to fly away

Send in the messengers, let the story be told
Set free philosophy with the medicines old
One in a body of a sacred plan
Part of a vision, believe and you can

Here comes the sun
Over my head
Show me a path and I'll be led
Walking alone, I'm not afraid

I have my wings to fly away