

Michal, Rose

The aftertaste was one long longing
My whole being begging for one

My afterlife will be a song
With otherworldly inspiration
She calls me on

Rose has died and now morose
Let it happen comatose
I could use another dose of faith
Of faith

Faith that emboldens me
Caught in her entropy
Folds her rosy fingertips
She pulls the crimson ocean
Riptides of seratonin
In all my whole world, there's only this
My roses

My happiness lasts a moment
I don't own it
She is the dawn

You've done all you can do
I bleed through you
She calls me on

Rose has died and now morose
Let it happen comatose
I could use another dose of faith
Of faith

Faith that emboldens me
Caught in her entropy
Folds her rosy fingertips
She pulls the crimson ocean
Riptides of seratonin
In all my whole world, there's only this
My roses

Life's a war, life's a war
What are we fighting for?
Life's a war, life's a war
What are we fighting for?

My rose is gone

Rose has died and now morose
Let it happen comatose
I could use another dose of faith
Of faith

Faith that emboldens me, caught in her entropy
Rose unfolds rosy fingertips
Drown in her crimson ocean
Riptides of seratonin
In all my whole world, there's only this

Faith that emboldens me
Caught in her entropy
Fate unfolds her fingertips
She pulls the crimson ocean
Riptides of seratonin

In all my world, there's only this

My roses
My loneliness
My roses