

Michelle Branch, Earlier Today

I think I saw you earlier today
I think you might've looked my way
You might've shown expression if it'd been a moment more
But I can't be sure

Tonight I took a walk right down your road
In the dark, I didn't want you to know
And I think I might've seen your shadow at the door
But I can't be sure

And every time I look outside my window
I'm waiting for an answer that don't show
And you don't know anything about rejection
That I don't know

Were you thinking of her as you talked to me?
Were you walking with her you walked me down the street?
Were you picturing her as you kissed me goodnight?
Were you trying too hard not to try?

I think it's gonna take me some time
To get me back in my old frame of mind
I might try forget you, or pretend that I'm not torn
But I can't be sure

I think it got too much for me to take
The other night, it'd been too long to wait
And I think I might be closer to forgetting what I saw
But I can't be sure

And every time I look outside my window
I'm waiting for an answer that don't show
And you don't know anything about rejection
That I don't know

Were you thinking of her as you talked to me?
Were you walking with her you walked me down the street?
Were you picturing her as you kissed me goodnight?
Were you trying too hard not to try?
