

Michelle Poe, Teach Me Again

Sometimes this time of year
I get a little moody
Pour some sweet red wine to ease my mind
And i close my eyes and wonder through old memories
And everytime I do
I go back to you Teachin me the things I never knew I never knew

Oh baby I still remember
Love lessons in late September
And the fire of your touch
and the chills through my skin
Call me crazy but I keep hopin'
One day that door will open
And you'll come walkin' in
To teach me again

You know baby it amazed me
When you pulled me close and kissed me so soft and slow made me wonder how hunger could keep me so satisfied i tried a time or two lovin someone new but it never made me burn like when i learned it all from you

Oh baby I still remember
Love lessons in late September
and the chills through my skin
Call me crazy but I keep hopin'
One day that door will open
And you'll come walkin' in
To teach me again

I guess lately Im afraid that Ive forgotten how to feel and i need you to remind me Show me
What love was like back when it was real

Oh baby I still remember
Love lessons in late September
and the chills through my skin
Call me crazy but I keep hopin'
One day that door will open
And you'll come walkin' in
To teach me again

teach me again, and again, and again , and again
teach me again
