

Michelle Wright, Gravity

Your unbelievable, simply irresistible, and certainly your kissable
And next to you I'm way too shy, and lose my backbone
Leave my feelings unknown,
I should've been on my own
Then I'm left to wonder why

This is all so hard,
letting down my guard
It's all the same, it's you I blame
But maybe that's not right

(chorus)
So I'll blame
Gravity, for always holding out on me
When I just want to run away
It trips me and I fall for you
Makes perfect sense to me
Lose responsibility
Then everytime I fail to see How easy this could be
I can put the blame on gravity

Your undeniable, and certainly achievable
If I could only speak my mind
But I deliberate, simple thing I complicate
Then I think it best to wait
It happens to me all the time
This is all so hard
Letting down my guard
It's all the same, it's you I blame
But maybe that's not right

(chorus)

There is something I must confess
I was happy with my loneliness, oh yeah
Weightless is so easy to be
Now I'm up in a different spin
Out of control and completely into you
So why put the blame on me
When I can't but the blame on gravity

(chorus)
