

Michelle Wright, I've Forgotten You

It's snowing in Miami and it's hailing in LA
Money's growing like green apples on the trees
I've been hanging out with Elvis, yeah and all my bills are paid
And they're giving away Cadillacs for free

The whole world gets along
And I haven't thought about you once since you've been gone

I've forgotten you
I've forgotten every single time you kissed me
I don't miss you like you think I do
I've forgotten you
How you held me and it felt like it's what you were born to do
If I lie enough it might come true
I've forgotten you

Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah

There's a million things about you I don't remember any more
Like that night we got that cabin up in Jasper
I don't remember how you kissed me up against that old oak door
Yeah, it's funny how things fade right when it's over

Yeah, I'm doing fine
I sleep just like a baby almost every night

I've forgotten you
I've forgotten every single time you kissed me
I don't miss you like you think I do
I've forgotten you
How you held me and it felt like it's what you were born to do
If I lie enough it might come true
I've forgotten you

Yeah, yeah, yeah, yeah

Can't you see I'm moving on
And I haven't thought about you once since you've been gone

I've forgotten you
I've forgotten every single time you kissed me
I don't miss you like you think I do
I've forgotten you
How you held me and it felt like it's what you were born to do

I've forgotten you
