

Miguel Bose, One Touch

While heavens burn
While rivers turn
While stars above us fall down from the night
Will lovers sleep?
Will secrets keep?
Will dreams grow ever colder till they die?

Then you stand beside me
When you stand beside me
As we stand at the edge of the blue
Face to face at the edge of the blue

One touch, two people
One beat, and we dance at the heart of the world
One look, and the world begins to shine
One love, two people
One step, and we touch at the heart of the world
One touch, and the Moon and the stars collide
As we touch at the heart of the world

Beneath the Sun the colours run
The shadows fall, the pictures fade away
This happy face, a hiding place
Another dream, another rainy day

Then you stand beside me
When you stand beside me
As we stand at the edge of the blue
Face to face at the edge of the blue

One touch, two people
One beat, and we dance at the heart of the world
One look, and the world begins to shine
One love, two people
One step, and we touch at the heart of the world
One touch, and the Moon and the stars collide
As we touch at the heart of the world

One love to keep them all
And one love to blind them
One love to set them free
And one love will find them

One touch, two people
One beat, and we dance at the heart of the world
One look, and the world begins to shine
One love, two people
One step, and we touch at the heart of the world
One touch, and the Moon and the stars collide
As we dance at the heart of the world
One touch, two people
One beat, and we dance at the heart of the world
One look, and the world begins to shine
One love, two people
One step, and we touch at the heart of the world
One touch, and the Moon and the stars collide
As we touch at the heart of the world
One touch, two people
One beat, and we dance at the heart of the world...