

Mike Borgia, When The Bombs Come

Oblivious of what's to come, she laughs at home with a daughter and son.
At will the soldiers take their place to violate the innocent.
Is this a joke as they fire away? only to find the unconfirmed.

When the bombs come, you'll wish they had stayed away
When the bombs come you hope they will feel regret.

To read the media that's fed, makes us the stupid and content.
We sacrifice knowing the truth and become divided and misinformed.
Is this a joke and they lie away.
Instead of owning their mistakes.

When the bombs come, you'll wish they had stayed away
When the bombs come you hope they will feel regret