

Mike Scott, World Party

Well it's got nothing to do with anything that is real you just believe in it and it's true You can sooth like an angel or sigh like a saint you can dream it and see it through You will live to see a sea of lights sparking on the face of a pearl Climb your own peak
find a new streak

Get yourself along to the world party (party!)

Now you've been building for yourself a cool place in the sand you're thinking that it's mighty fine You've got dust in your eyeballs, you got mud in your mouth but it's your head, it ain't mine I've got a madman of my own to contend with cursing in the cave of my skull Turn the other cheek
find a new streak

Get yourself along to the world party (party!)

Well I heard a rumour of a golden age somewhere back along the line Maybe I dreamed it in a whisper or heard it in a spell
It was something to do with the sign of the times and the only thing that I remember Is a summer like a pretty girl who shimmers and shines Moving in time shaking to the beat of the heart of the world

Party (party! party! party! party! party! party! party! party! party!)
