

Miley Cyrus, Thousand Miles (feat. Brandi Carlile)

Amazing

I'm driving 'round town in a beat-up old Mercedes
You think I'm crazy
You might be right
But when he smiles, I don't care about the past
Just like that

I told myself I closed that door
But I'm right back here again
I know half of what I'm saying don't make no sense
So don't ask me where I've been

I'm not always right, but still, I ain't got time for what went wrong
Where I end up, I don't really care
I'm out of my mind, but still, I'm holding on like a rolling stone
A thousand miles from anywhere

I look in the rear-view
I was talking to you 'fore I realized this madness
Before the sadness
Oh, I pick up the phone and I call back home
But all I get is a dial tone
And instead of hanging up, I hang my head

I told myself I closed that door
But I'm right back here again
I know half of what I'm saying don't make no sense
So don't ask me where I've been

I'm not always right, but still, I ain't got time for what went wrong
Where I end up, I don't really care
I'm out of my mind, but still, I'm holding on like a rolling stone
A thousand miles from anywhere

I told myself I closed that door
But I'm right back here again
I know half of what I'm saying don't make no sense
So don't ask me where I've been

I'm not always right, but still, I ain't got time for what went wrong
Where I end up, I don't really care
I'm out of my mind, but still, I'm holding on like a rolling stone
A thousand miles from anywhere
