

Mimi Webb, Little Bit Louder

I could love you a little bit louder
Say that I'm not happy without you
Guess I'm afraid, oh, I'm afraid you'll run away when
I start loving you louder

I can be cold, so out of reach
You say I'm hard to believe
All in my head, and nothing said get through to me (Oh-oh, oh, oh-oh, oh)

So if it feels like we're fading
Getting so tired of all this waiting
I've seen a million words, screaming out every verse that you know, oh-oh, oh, oh-oh, oh, oh-oh, oh

I could love you a little bit louder
Say that I'm not happy without you
Guess I'm afraid, oh, I'm afraid you'll run away when
I start loving you louder, a little bit louder
I could kiss you a little bit harder
Hold your hands so that you know that I want you
Guess I'm afraid, oh, I'm afraid you'll run away when
I start loving you louder, a little bit louder

It's getting too old, these feelings on hold
Maybe it's time to let it show
There's so much love, burns like a fire inside of me (Oh-oh, oh, oh-oh, oh)

So if it feels like we're fading (It feels like)
Getting so tired of all this waiting
I've seen a million words, screaming out every verse that you know, oh-oh, oh, oh-oh, oh, oh-oh, oh

But I could love you a little bit louder
Say that I'm not happy without you
Guess I'm afraid, oh, I'm afraid you'll run away when
I start loving you louder, a little bit louder
I could kiss you a little bit harder
Hold your hands so that you know that I want you
Guess I'm afraid, oh, I'm afraid you'll run away when
I start loving you louder, a little bit louder
